

A detailed black and white line drawing of a bear standing in a forest. The bear is the central focus, facing forward with a large, light-colored nose and dark eyes. Its fur is intricately detailed with various line patterns, including wavy lines for the neck and chest, and more complex, swirling patterns for the body. The bear's paws are visible at the bottom, holding a small, round object. The background features stylized evergreen trees on the left and right, and a dense field of low-lying plants or mushrooms at the base of the bear. The entire illustration is framed by a simple black border.
