

One of the most important things to remember is that the rabbit is a very sensitive animal. The slightest touch of its ears or body can cause it to become very nervous. It is important to handle the rabbit with care and to avoid sudden movements. The rabbit is a very social animal and it needs to be handled regularly. It is also important to provide the rabbit with a comfortable and safe environment. The rabbit is a very intelligent animal and it can learn a lot of things. It is important to be patient and to take the time to teach the rabbit. The rabbit is a very beautiful animal and it is a pleasure to have one in your home.

ESSENCE
WWW.WTC.COM