

© 2011 BONE

It is a very long time ago that I first met you. I was a young boy and you were a young girl. We were both very happy and we were both very brave. We were both very strong and we were both very kind. We were both very beautiful and we were both very smart. We were both very good and we were both very bad. We were both very much in love and we were both very much in need of each other. We were both very much in need of each other and we were both very much in need of each other.

Brangs

Created by Bone