Can the distributor send out a set of orders at the first time. I'd like to receive one of each, according to current hunting status in environment estimation of deer. One yearling aged buck, one yearling does, several does at age intermediate, one breeding doe.

Normaly, you can't do the same thing. I've been writing this article since. Can I have all hunting at least differentiating between them. Date breeding. Is there been a trends throughout past two to three years? Can I change one of those bucks to a doe?
