

For the first time, the hero is shown in a more human, vulnerable state, as he is surrounded by a massive, chaotic energy field that seems to be consuming him. The city below is shown in a more detailed, realistic style, with various buildings and structures visible.

General Editor: John F. Kennedy and the other members of the editorial staff.