

Lum Yean Yee

Sort the content first to head line and then on the top line. On the left side of the page, there is a small box with the text "Lum Yean Yee" and a small drawing of a snake. The main body of the page contains a large, stylized drawing of a snake, which is the central focus of the page. The snake is coiled in a large 'S' shape, with its head raised and mouth open. The snake's body is decorated with horizontal stripes. Surrounding the snake are several traditional Chinese lanterns and starburst decorations. The entire scene is enclosed within a decorative border with rounded corners.
